The previous title of Lyndon State yearbook's has been "Northern Lights". We decided to change the theme of the 1989-1990 yearbook to "New Lights" in order to reflect a new beginning, not only in the yearbook, but also in the new faces and facilities at LSC. Through this theme, and in this yearbook, we hope to show how many changes have occurred with the arrival of the new decade.

One of the most prominent changes in the college community has been the installation of our new President, Dr. Peggy Williams. Dr. Williams comes to us from Trinity College, and is providing us with a new outlook, which the staff and students are adjusting to.

Another addition made this year was the new SHAPE facility. The pool, being the central focus of the building, has been welcomed eagerly by all. The Rita Bole Sports Complex was officially dedicated on February 12, 1990 by Governor Madeline Kunin and was unofficially christened during Winter Weekend with the swim relay. With the advent of the pool has come the new intramural sport of water polo. Along with the pool, such facilities as an additional basketball and racquetball court have made it possible for more students to partake in various athletic activities on campus.

There have been other changes to the college campus, such as the installation of the gazebo, and the renovation of the 19th Credit. These are only two of the many changes that Lyndon State College will see in the upcoming decade.

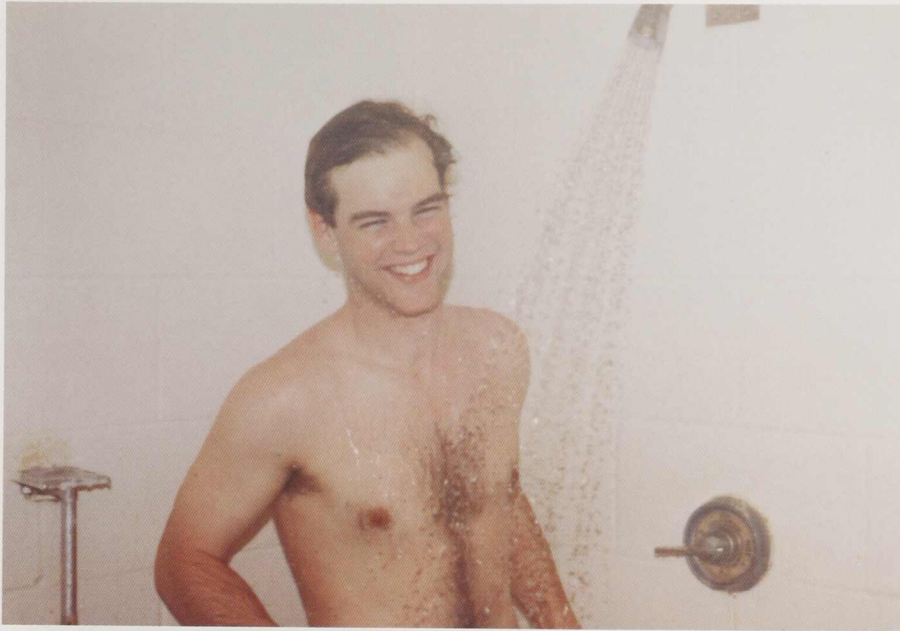

The yearbook staff wanted to find out who the photographers on campus were. So we decided to hold a photography contest with four categories for entries. We only received four entries so the staff decided to print all of the pictures.

Our thanks to the participating photographers in this contest. Hopefully, next year we will have more participants.

The new SHAPE facility was dedicated as the Rita Bole Sports Complex on February 12, 1990. The speakers at the dedication ceremony included Dr. Peggy Williams, Charles Bunting, Chancellor of Vermont State College system and John Zampieri, Director of the Vermont State Buildings Division. Travis Poulin, representing the student body, and Thelma White, a student of former professor Rita Bole, also spoke. Governor Madeline Kunin was the highlight of the ceremony, however, as she officially dedicated the facility and cut the ribbon.

Throughout all of the time that the seniors spend at LSC, through the hard work, the late nights, the good, and the bad, it's all worth it when you finally walk out of those doors with a sense of accomplishment . . . Of course others are happy just to walk out . . . But take pride in what you've done . . . and what you will do.

In Appreciation . . .

In this formative year at LSC with the inauguration of the new college President and the opening of the S.H.A.P.E. facility, we are also experiencing a great loss. Dennis Koch announced his resignation this spring.

Dennis served as Student Activities Director, but his commitment to the college and especially the students stretched far beyond that role. He also served as advisor to the Campus Activities Board and the Student Senate. Through these groups he spent much of his time interacting with students. He gave of himself as very few other staff members do. His devotion to the student body shows how much he cares.

Dennis, you will be missed. Good luck with all that your future holds!
